

THE ARIZONA REPUBLIC

Web site will offer firms help on following new law

September 4, 2007

Ryan Randazzo

Creative Business Resources launched a Web site to help Arizona firms comply with the new employer-sanctions law that takes effect Jan. 1.

The site will feature articles, compliance tips and a blog.

"Since the law was passed, we have seen a vast increase in questions and concerns from our clients and the local business community," said Aaron Witsoe, president of CBR.

"We decided that there needed to be one, central source where anyone could go to learn about this new law, ask questions and find additional resources. Our hope is that this Web site will fill that void."

azimmigrationcompliance.com